

THE LINCOLN LOG
ON THIS DAY,

NOVEMBER 8, 1858

Lincoln writes to New York Tribune editor Horace Greeley on behalf of John Nicolay. Lincoln explains, "This will introduce our mutual friend John G. Nicolay, who resides [in Springfield, Illinois]. He wishes an arrangement to correspond for your paper. He is entirely trust-worthy; and, so far as I am capable of judging, altogether competent for such a situation. I hope you will conceive it your interest to engage him."
